Personalized learning for every role.

Courses

Each course is structured the same way. First, we briefly introduce the module and its purpose. Then, important key features are explained, for example adding or planning a crew member. If the module has a library function, it is explained as well.

Enrollment

With a business subscription, you have complete control over course enrollment. You can assign different courses to specific teams based on their roles. For example, crewing managers can take crewing courses, engineers can focus on maintenance courses, and superintendents can enroll in fleetview courses. The decision is entirely yours.
